

The Sydney Morning Herald.

PRICE ONE PENNY.

No. 22,726. Registered at the General Post Office, Sydney, for transmission by post as a Newspaper.

SYDNEY, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1910.

12 PAGES.

PRICE 1d.

SUMMARY.

The "Daily Chronicle" urges an early dissolution. The "Telegraph" says the dissolution will come in two or three weeks.

The Labour Party will place the Osborne Bill before the problem of the Lords and their trade.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald suggests that the Government should pass a resolution for payment of members.

"We repudiate the claim of 800 Tory peers that they have a right to control the destinies of their fellow-citizens," says Mr. Lloyd George.

The independence "People" protests against the Duke of Connaught's action in building new fortifications.

A soldier at Neumunster, near Hamburg, was born for nine days.

W. Denshaw was nearly £100,000 at

BIRTHS.
CLIFFORD.—November 13, at Ellerslie, Darlinghurst, the wife of Mr. P. C. Blamey—a daughter.

DEATHS.

BUCKLEY.—November 8, 1910, at Queensland, Edward, the beloved son of Mrs. Buckley, of 391 William-street, Paddington.

BUNDY.—On Sunday, November 13, 1910, at Kangaroo, Avenue street, Randwick, Francis Forbes, fifth Bishop of Western River, aged 54 years.

BUNDY.—November 13, 1910, Francis Forbes Bishop, aged 54 years.

CORBETT.—In his residence, The Cliffs, Macleay-street, Point Piper, Rosetta, the dearly beloved wife of Samuel Corbett, in her 70th year.

DAWSON.—November 13, 1910, accidentally drowned at home, Frederick Dawson, aged 33 years.

FORD.—November 13, 1910, at the residence of her husband, Mr. Gilbert, The Glen, Ashfield, Emma, dearly loved infant daughter of George Coates, of Glebe.

GIBARD.—November 13, 1910, Alfred M. Gibard, late of Exeter, in his 70th year.

GODFREY.—November 13, 1910, at St. Vincent's Hospital, St. Vincent's Hill, Sydney, the wife of Mr. Godfrey, a young son of Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey, aged 12 years.

HOPPE.—November 13, 1910, at Kogarah, Frederick Hoppe, late Wagga Wagga, beloved father of John Hoppe, aged 72 years.

HOWELL.—November 13, 1910, at Denison, Colorado, U.S.A., John Howell, late General Manager of the Broken Hill Proprietary Company, Bill Howell.

PEAM.—November 13, 1910, Jonathan Peam, beloved brother of W. H. Peam, of George Street, Sydney, aged 72 years.

WHITE.—November 13, 1910, at Private Hospital, Sydney, Edith Elizabeth, widow of the late Mr. White, of Willoughby, and mother of Mrs. N. Nield, of Forrest, Forrest-read, Belley, formerly of Townsville, Queensland.

SPENCE.—November 13, 1910, at the Coast Hospital, Stanly Austin, the beloved infant son of Austin and Anna Spence, aged 10 months.

TUCKER.—November 13, 1910, accidentally drowned, at the hands of Edward Holden, eldest son of Edward and Letitia Tucker, of 328 Bourke-street, Balmain East, aged 27 years.

IN MEMORIAM.

BROWN.—In memory of the late Harry Brown, who died November 13, 1910, at Paddington.

GRADY.—In loving memory of my dear husband and father, and my two children, who died this life November 13, 1910, aged 86 years. They will be buried in the grave of their birthplace, in the old cemetery of their native town.

COTTER.—In loving memory of our dear son, Roy, who departed this life on November 13, 1910, aged 8 years. Inserted by his parents.

COOPER.—In memory of our darling son, the nephew, Roy, who departed this life on November 13, 1910, aged 8 years. Inserted by his Auntie Clara and cousin, Mabel Ryan.

DAVIES.—In sad but loving memory of our dear son, Alan James, who departed this life November 13, 1910, aged 25 years. Inserted by his loving father and mother, Bernard and Augusta Davies.

GOODHORN.—In loving memory of our dear uncle, William Goodhorn, who passed away at Penrith on November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by Mr. and Mrs. W. Carroll.

GREEN.—In loving memory of our dear mother, who died November 13, 1910.

To be inserted in our next issue.

GRIMES.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Harriet, who died at her residence, Warrington-road, North Sydney, November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. As true a heart as ever beat.

A place is vacant in our home.

Which never can be filled.

Inserted by her loving children, Arthur, Fred, Bert, Jack, and daughter, Little Green.

GREEN.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Harriet, who died at her residence, Warrington-road, North Sydney, November 13, 1910, aged 90 years.

As true a heart as ever beat.

A place is vacant in our home.

Which never can be filled.

Inserted by her loving children, Bert, Charles, Arthur, Fred, Bert, Jack, and daughter, Little Green.

GREEN.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Harriet, who died at her residence, Warrington-road, North Sydney, November 13, 1910, aged 90 years.

As true a heart as ever beat.

A place is vacant in our home.

Which never can be filled.

To be inserted in our next issue.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of our dear mother, Harriet, who died at her residence, Warrington-road, North Sydney, November 13, 1910, aged 90 years.

As true a heart as ever beat.

A place is vacant in our home.

Which never can be filled.

Inserted by her loving children, Bert, Charles, Arthur, Fred, Bert, Jack, and daughter, Little Green.

GREEN.—In sad but loving memory of our dear mother, Harriet, who died at her residence, Warrington-road, North Sydney, November 13, 1910, aged 90 years.

As true a heart as ever beat.

A place is vacant in our home.

Which never can be filled.

To be inserted in our next issue.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son and daughter-in-law, Bert, and Sarah, Bayswater.

There are days of bitter anguish,

When the tears begin to fall;

But the parting from our mother;

Is such a bitter pang;

She lies there in memory still;

And will we never see her again?

A precious one is in us gone,

A place is vacant in our home;

A place is vacant in our home.

Which never can be filled.

Inserted by her loving children, Bert, Charles, Arthur, Fred, Bert, Jack, and daughter, Little Green.

GREEN.—In sad but loving memory of our dear mother, Harriet, who died at her residence, Warrington-road, North Sydney, November 13, 1910, aged 90 years.

As true a heart as ever beat.

A place is vacant in our home.

Which never can be filled.

To be inserted in our next issue.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son, Bert, and daughter, Anna.

GRIMES.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet, who died November 13, 1910, aged 90 years. Inserted by her loving son,

FIGHT FOR CONSTITUTION.
THE APPROACHING ELECTION.
ENTHUSIASM OF LIBERALS.

LONDON, Nov. 14.
The "Daily Chronicle," in a leader headed "Strike Now, Strike Hard," urges dissolution, and that earlier the better. It would be bad for trade if the campaign was allowed to drag weary along to the Christmas holidays.

The "Times" says that a dissolution may come in two or three weeks. The policy of the Government is to ask of the King a guarantee for the creation of peers, contingent on the result of the election.

The whole fighting force of Liberalism is pressed to the height of enthusiasm in the prospect of an immediate election, and the "Times" warns "Tories throughout the country to prepare for an election from December 1.

It is possible, the "Times" declares, that the Government will accelerate the completion of the new register of voters. This Liberalists would not oppose, unless it was linked with the holding of all elections on a single day.

THE LABOUR POSITION.

DISTURBANCE AMONG THE MASSES

MR. O'BRIEN'S CAUSTIC CRITICISM.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
Mr. W. O'Brien, M.P. (Independent Nationalist), speaking at Dungarvan, said—

"Mr. Redmond is returning with another pot of boodle, which he has scraped together tumbling and tight-rope dancing in America.

When Mr. Redmond banked his dollars he called a recantation of his views on education, and doubtless Mr. O'Connor will also make penance for his speeches in Canada."

WELSH COAL STRIKE.

SOCIALIST FIGHTING BRIGADES.

ORGANISED BOYCOTT.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
Charles Stalton, a socialist leader at Abergavenny, Glamorganshire, is forming fighting brigades from the men at various pits to defend women and children from police attacks.

A meeting held by the strikers ratified the formation of such brigades, and it was decided to boycott everybody assisting the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

ABOLITION OF VETO.

MR. LLOYD-GEORGE'S COMPLAINT.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in a message to the "Yorkshire Observer" says: "Having vainly endeavoured to use conciliatory methods we are now ready to fight for fair play."

"We repudiate the claim of 900 Tory peers that they are born to control the destiny of 45,000,000 of their fellow citizens, and to trample upon the wishes of the latter for good government."

UNITED STATES AND MEXICO.

A DELICATE SITUATION.

MR. KEIR HARDIE'S VIEWS.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
Mr. Keir Hardie, M.P. (Labour), blames the Government for seeking a general election. He claims that they already have a mandate from the people.

EMPORIUM AT PORTSMOUTH.

GERMAN OFFICER PLEADS GUILTY.

LONDON, Nov. 14, 12.10 p.m.
Lieut. Siegfried Ulfert of the 2nd Battalion, Nassau Regiment, of the German Army, was charged at the Portsmouth Assizes under the Official Secrets Act with having attempted wrongfully to obtain information concerning the defences of Portsmouth. To this charge, which is a misdemeanour and not a felony, he pleaded guilty, and was bound over in the sum of £250 to appear for sentence when called upon.

THE WARLORD ON OBEDIENCE.

IMPRESSES RECRUITS.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.
The German Emperor, addressing recruits at Potsdam, said: "The soldier is always compelled to give unqualified obedience to his warlord, even to giving him preference over his own conscience, because the warlord and the army are equally responsible before the Fatherland."

Newspapers are commenting upon the speech.

THE SEINE IN FLOOD.

DAMAGE IN PARIS.

PARIS, Nov. 13.
Floods are general in the basin of the Seine River. The water has invaded the Quai d'Orsay, Paris, and, backing up the river, has overflowed into the Rue Férou. The military are raising the walls along the quays.

Nov. 14.
The cellars of the Prefecture of Police, of the Palace of Justice, and of the subversive passage of the Gare d'Austerlitz, are flooded.

Anxiety is expressed at the progress of the floods.

IMPERIAL UNIVERSITIES' TROPHY.

WOX BY OXFORD.

LONDON, Nov. 14.
The ride match for the Imperial Universities' trophy, presented by the Australian Government, was won by Oxford with 140; Adelaide was second with 140, and the positions of the other contestants were: Cambridge, 142; Melbourne, 136; Sydney, 136; London, 130; Manchester, 127.

The Imperial Universities' trophy was shot for last year for the first time, and was won by Sydney University. The trophy has not yet been made.

The Hungarian Delegation has adopted the naval estimates.

REVISING THE PRAYER BOOK.

PRIVATE BUILDERS TO TENDER.

LONDON, Nov. 13.

The Archbishop of Canterbury in a statement to Convocation indicates that the revision of the Prayer Book will be steadily pressed on.

IRISH HOME RULE.

RETURN OF MR. REDMOND.

A WONDERFUL WELCOME.

FREEDOM FOR IRELAND.

LONDON, Nov. 14.

The welcome which Ireland gave to Mr. J. E. Redmond, M.P., leader of the Nationals' party, on his return from his campaign in America on Saturday, was unparalleled since Mr. Parnell returned from his American tour.

Numerous speeches were made on the route from Queenstown to Cork. An enormous torchlight procession met Mr. Redmond at Dublin station, and escorted him to the United Irish League Building, where he addressed the crowd.

"I go to the British Parliament," Mr. Redmond said, "with the single purpose of endeavouring out of the necessities of the English parties to win freedom for Ireland. You have never had such a chance as you now have from this struggle between the forces of democracy and the antiquated relics of feudalism."

Bonfires were lighted on the hills through parts of Ireland when Mr. Redmond landed.

THE AMERICAN MISSION.

DISTURBANCE AMONG THE MASSES

LONDON, Nov. 13.

Mr. Ramsey MacDonald, M.P., writing to the "Daily Chronicle" on the political situation, says: "The Labour party will insist on imposing a test on all candidates of the party to place the Osborne Judgement before the problem of the Lords or freemen." He suggests that the Government should make payment of members the subject of a resolution, which the Commons alone would pass, making payment operative in the next Parliament; also that facilities be given when the House resumes that week for the second reading of a bill to reverse the Osborne Judgement.

The country is more unsettled, suspicious, and impatient than in January. Mr. MacDonald asserts: "Its confidence is shattered, and the people are convinced that they are the subjects of a determined conspiracy on the part of vested interests. The Constitution Conference added to the perturbation."

CONSERVATIVE RIDICULE.

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE DRUSE REBELLION.

SUCCESSFULLY USE BOMBS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 14.

The Livingstone correspondent of the "Times" telegraphs: "Sir Francis Hopwood, Permanent Under-Secretary to the Colonial Office, who is accompanying the Royal party on their tour, discussed while in Capetown the British-Indian question with the South African Government. He found that the difference with the Imperial Government was comparatively small.

"It is probable that the solution of the problem will be the repeal of the Act of 1907 prohibiting the admission of Indians to the Transvaal, and the adoption of general immigration law on the Australian model, based on an education instead of a race test."

"South Africa would take power by legislation to interpret the test in her own way. So it would be in effect a complete bar to future immigration; but it would be a course which Asquith would prefer to a public affront."

FOOTBALL MATCHES CANCELLED.

The police in South Wales have ordered the cancellation of all football matches in order to prevent the congregation of crowds.

EXPLOSIVES STOLEN.

LONDON, Nov. 14.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in a message to the "Yorkshire Observer" says: "Having vainly endeavoured to use conciliatory methods we are now ready to fight for fair play."

"We repudiate the claim of 900 Tory peers that they are born to control the destiny of 45,000,000 of their fellow citizens, and to trample upon the wishes of the latter for good government."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in a message to the "Yorkshire Observer" says: "Having vainly endeavoured to use conciliatory methods we are now ready to fight for fair play."

"We repudiate the claim of 900 Tory peers that they are born to control the destiny of 45,000,000 of their fellow citizens, and to trample upon the wishes of the latter for good government."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungracious king of political mendicants, returned with his pockets bulging with American gold, to give insulting directions to the successor of Chatham."

THE SUPREMACY OF MR. REDMOND.

Mr. F. E. Smith, M.P. (Conservative), in the course of a speech at Bromley on Friday, ridiculed Mr. Asquith for being unable to come to a decision as to the Government's miners at the Constitution Conference before Mr. Redmond, "the ungr

